

Gunfire Quells 2,000 Rioting Prison Inmates

Jackson, Mich. (AP) — Shotgun-firing guards last night broke up the third major riot this year at Southern Michigan Prison, the world's largest walled penitentiary.

More than 2,000 convicts, some wielding butcher knives and clubs, joined in the melee that lasted two hours. Even when it was over the situation was described as "so tense, anything could happen."

Despite 20 shotgun and sub-machine gun blasts into the air, no one was shot, and no guards were grabbed as hostages as they were in bloody and costly routines in April and July.

One convict suffered a scalp wound, apparently from a flying plate or other missile, as last night's riot flared up in the prison dining hall and spread into the yards and cellblocks.

Capt. Earl Secrest, one of 140 state troopers racing to the scene, was critically injured as his car went out of control and hit a tree two miles southeast of Lansing.

The same cry that set off rioting in April set off last night's action in the mess hall.

"There's salt in the coffee," someone yelled. Then bedlam broke loose.

Tables were overturned; so were spaghetti pots from which the prison's 5,000 to 6,000 inmates were to be fed last night. Plates and other missiles flew through the air.

Authorities said there had been complaints about the food for several days and that spaghetti is not a popular dish with the inmates.

Convicts broke into the kitchen, grabbing knives and other weapons, then raced to Cellblocks 1 and 2, releasing inmates there who rushed into the yards.

Assistant Deputy Warden Charles Cahill, grabbing a sub-machine gun, led eight shotgun-armed guards into the yards and followed a pre-arranged plan of driving everyone from vital installations, the kitchen and dining hall, then the power plant, the prison industries and the laundry.

Before they reached the laundry, only recently rebuilt after its destruction in April, the convicts had set several fires. The flames were extinguished with only minor damage being caused.

Then Cahill and his fast-moving squad drove all prisoners back into cellblocks.

But the convicts raced up and down the catwalks, banging out windows with chairs, wrecking desks of offices, setting bedding afire, and tossing furniture from high tiers. Cahill let loose with his sub-machine gun, several guards fired shotguns. So did other guards on the roofs of cellblocks overlooking the yards.

The guns convinced the inmates they were better off in their cells. And instead of spaghetti, they got beef stew.

Fine Endorses Mahany For Floor Leader

Harrisburg, (AP) — Gov. John S. Fine last night endorsed Sen. Rowland B. Mahany (R-Crawford) for the position of Senate Republican floor leader in the 1953 legislature.

Fine, commenting on a report that Mahany would oppose Sen. John M. Walker (R-Allegheny), floor leader in the 1949 and 1951 sessions, for the post, said:

"Mahany has always been with me. I have always been for him and I'm still for him for floor leader."

The governor added that he has expressed his choice of Mahany to Sen. M. Harvey Taylor, Republican state chairman, who is likely to be re-elected to a fifth term as Senate president pro-tempore.

The 32 Republicans in the new Senate will meet at Hershey Nov. 24 to choose a floor leader.

Last week Walker indicated he believed he had enough votes to insure his re-election to the floor leadership.

Fine's endorsement of Mahany may lead to a bitter fight for the floor leader post unless Walker withdraws.

But Walker said the governor's action will have no effect on his plans.

Walker broke with the governor last year in opposing Fine's proposal for a one half of one per cent income tax.

India's Peace Plan Divides Western Bloc

United Nations, N.Y. (AP)—Canada and some other influential non-Communist countries in the U.N. Assembly differed with the United States yesterday over India's compromise plan for ending the Korean War. They expressed firm belief that American objections could be met.

Members of the British Commonwealth were reported to have given support to the proposal of V. K. Krishna Menon, India, who was said to be extremely irritated that the United States reacted so quickly in opposition to key points of his resolution.

Members of the Asian-Arab group, of which India is a leader, expressed surprise at the rapid American reaction. They asked in private conferences in U.N. halls if the U.S. was trying to kill what they said was a plan for a fair chance to end the Korean War. They acknowledged, however, they had no hint of Red reaction.

But in London, a well qualified diplomat expressed the belief that the New Delhi government would not have come forward with its proposal unless it was satisfied Red China would accept the main points.

This London informant said the Chinese Communists had conveyed their views to the Indian mission in Peking, and the Indian plan was drafted partly on the basis of Chinese arguments. Presumably, however, Red China had not taken a final stand on the plan.

Opinion here in the important Latin American group of 20 countries was not jelled, although one of its leaders warned against the U.S. being caught in an "intellectual booby trap."

U.S. Deputy Delegate Ernest A. Gross took the brunt of the arguments upon him at a closed-door session of an eight-man subcommittee set up Monday by 27 countries backing a Western resolution on ending the Korean War.

Price Tag Put On Judgeships

New York (AP) — An attorney told state crime probers yesterday a Tammany district leader once offered him a $10,840-a-year judgeship for between $15,000 and $25,000. The district leader denied it.

The witness, Frank J. Dufficy, said district leader William Connolly of the Democratic Manhattan organization told him "it has always been customary" to put up at least $15,000 for such a nomination.

Dufficy said his answer was "count me out."

The lawyer said another man (Cornelius McNamara) got the Democratic nomination and that later he saw Connolly sporting a new automobile. Dufficy quoted Connolly as saying the nominee's money "paid for it."

Connolly replied that all he ever talked over with Dufficy was the probable cost of a 1947 campaign for the municipal bench — about $5,000.

Dufficy's testimony came at a session of the State Crime Commission's probe into municipal corruption.

Monopoly Suit Against DuPont Started By U. S.

Chicago (AP) — The Government yesterday urged a Federal Court to cut the du Pont family's "line of control" with the General Motors Corp. and the U. S. Rubber Co.

This began a legal battle which pits the government against those two huge firms and another industrial titan, E. I. du Pont de Nemours and Co.

It is based on the government's civil anti-trust suit against the three companies, 117 members of the du Pont family and three du Pont holding companies.

The suit contends that the du Ponts, through their stock holdings, control the du Pont company, General Motors and U. S. Rubber.

It also alleges that the operating companies violated the Sherman Act by restraining trade through secret rebates and by dividing several fields of manufacturing among themselves to eliminate competition.

The defendants have denied all the charges.

Military Votes Boost Ike's Lead

Philadelphia (AP) — As more and more absentee soldier ballots were counted yesterday, President-elect Dwight D. Eisenhower increased his lead over Democrat Adlai E. Stevenson.

The totals with more than half of the state's 8,472 precincts reported: Eisenhower, 14,850; Stevenson, 8,424; Martin, 9,561; Baird, 4,396.

Ike, Truman Reach Accord On Exchange Of Information

Elderly Man Wasn't Lost, Just Hunting Bear, He Says After Being Missing For 22 Hours

Bushkill — Lost for over 22 hours in the dense woodlands near here, John Stofko, a 71-year-old hunter from Bethlehem, found his way back yesterday and smilingly said "I wasn't lost. I was out hunting bear."

Stofko was in a party of seven hunters that left the steel city Monday for Monroe County on the six-day bruin season opened, determined to bag himself a burly bruin. But at 12:05 p.m., Monday he disappeared from the party hunting on the property of Luther Van Why, near Winona Falls, crossed the county line into Pike and did a solo on a backwoods story he can pass along to his great grandchildren.

A heavy fog bank hung over the section of Van Why's grounds while the hunters searched for bear, and it was into this shroud of blanket that the elderly hunter seemingly evaporated.

In the party were two of his sons, Michael and Edward, also of Bethlehem, and the group immediately launched an intensive search for the aging but spry Czechoslovakian native. They shouted, shot their guns into the air in a desperate attempt to signal their whereabouts, but when the efforts proved futile, at 7:30 p.m., phoned State police at Milford and Stroudsburg.

John Doebeling, Monroe County game protector and his aides also were called in on the search, and police patrolled Routes 402 and 209, in the vicinity where Stofko disappeared. Throughout the night, Doebeling's team conducted their search about until midnight, then retired to start again yesterday morning.

Meanwhile Stofko was "hunting for bear" and when he realized he was lost, about dusk Monday, he sought shelter and came to a vacant hunting lodge. By then he was in the Saw Creek section of Pike County and when he learned the cabin was locked, found shelter in an outdoor lavatory, where he remained overnight.

Bright and early yesterday morning the aged woodsman shouldered his gun, used the powers of direction his father taught him at ten while in Czechoslovakia, followed the creek downstream where he knew it soon would cross a road and lead him back to "civilization."

About 9:30 a.m. Stofko reached the home of Lawrence Dickinson where he had breakfast, then started for the next residence, the home of John Van Why, "to use their telephone." In the meantime the searching parties were preparing to comb the woods and John VanWhy was listed as a guide. A phone call to his home brought the unexpected reply, "Mr. Stofko's just coming up on the porch now," and the search had ended.

Inside the John Van Why home, with his son, Michael, Trooper Alex Kern of the Stroudsburg State police, Doebeling and Bill Cowden, a Washington County resident who is here as a student of the State Game Commission, the elderly woodsman told his tale and added, "I'm going out bear hunting again this afternoon."

Stofko attributed his return to information his father, a game keeper in Czechoslovakia, passed along. "But over there we had big brown bears, not like the black ones around here. 'Why,' he laughed, 'over there we didn't go hunting bear, they came hunting us.'"

But in his travels through the mountainside Stofko admitted he did spot a black bear. "But he was too far away for me to shoot at." Recalling his hunting experience in Europe the Bethlehem man said he killed a 550 pound brown bear when only 12 years old with a .22 rifle, and wasn't too dismayed to think he'd been lost "for only 22 hours."

Stofko's tale was met with a mixture of interest and skepticism by the group. "I don't know if you're telling the truth or not," said Michael Stofko, "but I'm proud of you."

State Probes Boy's Death At Pennhurst

Harrisburg (AP) — The State Welfare Department yesterday ordered an investigation into the death of a patient at the Pennhurst State School near Phoenixville.

The probe was ordered by William C. Brown, welfare secretary, following a complaint by Samuel P. Byers, of nearby Marysville RD 1, that the body of his son, Robert, 29, was covered with "bruises and welts" when returned from the institution.

Byers said that when the body was received by a Harrisburg undertaker from the school, he found it "badly cut and bruised."

"My son's stomach," Byers said, "looked like it was kicked by a person wearing heavy shoes. A big cut ran from the middle of the back to a point above the right hip. The back of the head looked like somebody had hit him with a blunt instrument. Two deep bruises on the ankles looked like they were caused by straps that stopped the blood circulation."

M. W. Denison, deputy secretary of welfare, said the department "knows nothing about the case" but that Secretary Brown will receive a complete report when the investigation is finished.

Washington (AP) — Sen. Capehart (R-Ind.) said yesterday the Senate Banking Committee, which he will head in the next Congress, will conduct a searching new investigation of the Reconstruction Finance Corp.

Strong Red Thrusts Repulsed In Bitterest Cold Of Season

Seoul, (AP) — Chinese Reds launched three strong attacks against a key Western Front hill position last night and early today in the bitterest cold of the season. Allied defenders repulsed all three after savage fighting.

The Chinese struck against the Hook, a vital height northeast of Pusan. In the second drives they denied Allied positions temporarily.

Twelve U. S. B29 Superforts rained 500-pound bombs on a 50-acre Sancheon supply center in Northwest Korea last night and bombed a troop center at Unpuri, five miles south of Sarwon. Both places were first-time targets.

B29 night intruders fired an ammunition depot west of Haeju. Pilots of the light bombers reported knocking out 115 Communist supply vehicles in strikes all across the peninsula.

In the Central Front fighting, Chinese Reds jabbed lightly at Sniper Ridge early today but withdrew so their big guns could resume a crashing artillery barrage.

About 175 Chinese hit Sniper's highest peak, Pinpoint Hill, at 5:30 a. m. in sub-freezing weather. They withdrew after 40 minutes.

At the same time a second force attacked Pinpoint from the east. It too withdrew.

Allied planes, tanks and big guns pounded Chinese forces at the northern end of Sniper yesterday.

Leaders Consider World Problems In White House Talks

Washington (AP) — President and President-elect met in solemn conferences yesterday and considered briefly some of the grave problems of an uneasy world crowding in on the old administration and the new.

Then, in sketchy general terms Harry S. Truman and Dwight D. Eisenhower announced they had agreed on a plan for liaison and exchange of information in the period before Eisenhower is inaugurated Jan. 20.

The plan, they said in a formal statement, "will be of great value to the stability of our country and to the favorable progress of international affairs."

The statement emphasized, however, that Eisenhower was not asked to assume, and did not assume, any responsibility for decisions taken by the Truman administration in its last weeks of power.

First alone, then with key advisers around them, the two men who were bitter political enemies less than three weeks ago held their long heralded unity meeting in the White House offices Eisenhower will soon take over.

They went into their sessions grim of face and serious in tone. Eisenhower made it plain to reporters later that the sessions were all business. He called them "very informative and instructive."

The emphasis clearly was on foreign affairs.

"We have discussed some of the most important problems affecting our country in the sphere of international relations," they said in their joint statement. "Information with respect to these problems has been made available to Gen. Eisenhower."

What the scope and range of these problems were, was only a matter of conjecture. The two men could have covered Korea, chances of another world war, troubles in Africa, the Middle East and the Far East, possibly developments relating to the perfecting of a hydrogen bomb.

From the White House, Eisenhower rushed over to the Pentagon to confer with Secretary of Defense Lovett and the Joint Chiefs of Staff. Presumably his forthcoming trip to Korea took the center of the stage at that conference. Eisenhower said the discussions were "a continuation of those at the White House, of a distinctly military flavor."

Then, at 4:38 p.m., Eisenhower left by plane for New York, to confer with Republican leaders of Congress today.

The White House call-at Truman's invitation — was sandwiched between the quick trip to the Defense Department and a gala reception by perhaps half a million cheering Washingtonians. The people of the Capital turned out on a dark, chilly day to see the general as he rode over historic avenues to the White House.

In the fashion of his successful campaign, Eisenhower climbed to the back of a big convertible, waving one hand, then the other and then holding both aloft while he flashed his famous grin.

But it was all solemnity when he wheeled through the northwest gate of the White House grounds and strode into Truman's office five minutes early for their 2 p.m. appointment. They sat there behind Truman's big desk, alone for 20 minutes except for an interruption for pictures.

Associated Press Photographer Harvey Georges, taking pictures on a pool basis, told reporters that the two took grim, determined and entirely serious as they talked in low, vigorous tones.

Finally Georges, addressing them in the plural as "Mr. Presidents," proposed that they shake hands. At that they grinned and extended their hands.

After the private session, they walked a few paces to the cabinet room for 50 minutes more of discussions.

Flanking Eisenhower were his two liaison men, Joseph M. Dodge and Sen. Henry Cabot Lodge Jr. Dodge is working with the Budget Bureau, Lodge is doing contact work with other federal agencies, chiefly the State and Defense Departments.

By Truman's side were Secretary Lovett, Secretary of State Acheson, Secretary of the Treasury Snyder and Mutual Security Administrator Averell Harriman.

Both Truman and Eisenhower had joined long in advance of yesterday's get-together in expressing hope their meeting would show the world America is united in the cause of "freedom and peace."

But they came out of the meeting stressing not so much the theme of unity as the thought that they had made arrangements for an orderly transfer of government.

Taft Offers Ike Ideas On Appointments

Washington (AP) — Sen. Taft disclosed yesterday that President-elect Eisenhower has asked him for suggestions on top-level government appointments, including cabinet posts, when the new Republican administration takes over on Jan. 20.

Taft said he had made several suggestions, but declined to name those he supported.

The Ohio senator told a news conference he will confer with Eisenhower in New York today and will ask the President-elect to set a timetable for pressing foreign and domestic legislation confronting the new Republican-controlled 83rd Congress.

Taft also commented that he does not believe it will be necessary for Eisenhower to intervene in the selection of GOP senators for key Senate posts.

Collaboration between Eisenhower and the senator he defeated for the Republican nomination seemed in line with statements issued after their campaign conference in New York City. Taft said then Eisenhower had assured him there would be no discrimination against Taft supporters in passing out federal appointments.

Discounting talk of friction over the job of GOP floor leader, Taft said he thinks his colleagues will fill major posts "without any battle."

He withheld comment, however, on whether he wants the floor leadership for himself or would prefer to continue in his old role as chairman of the GOP Policy Committee.

Mrs. Roosevelt Doesn't Expect Reappointment

United Nations, N. Y., (AP)—Mrs. Franklin D. Roosevelt indicated yesterday her days as a U. N. delegate are near an end.

She said she does not expect President-elect Eisenhower to name her again to the U. S. Delegation or to the U. N. Commission of Human Rights of which she was chairman until last year.

Her statement to a reporter came on the day that Secretary of State Acheson and President Truman were talking with Eisenhower about the status of the whole U. N. delegation. Its members, appointed by Truman, lose their posts as soon as Eisenhower becomes president.

Phoenix, Ariz. (AP) — Air Force planes, flying so low they jarred snow off the pines, dropped supplies to nearly 1,000 marooned elk hunters yesterday in Arizona's rough Mogollon Rim country.

In announcing the program, Joseph Jacobs, supervising principal, urged parents and friends of the school to avail themselves of the opportunity of counsel with the faculty during the allotted time, 6:30 to 7:45 p.m.

All teachers will be in their respective classrooms during that time, the principal said, to exhibit student work and to discuss individual student problems with parents.

A penny supper will be served in the school cafeteria beginning at 5 p.m. and continuing until all have been served. The local chapter of the Parent-Teachers association is sponsoring this part of the program.

A concert by the recently-organized high school mixed chorus and the 50-piece high school band will be presented in the school auditorium at 8 p.m. John Strupewski, music supervisor, will direct.

Jacobs said that the newest addition to the school's facilities, an art room located in the basement of the high school building, will be open for inspection. Mrs. C. Allen Edwards, art instructor, will exhibit work done by her classes.

There will also be an exhibit of the home economics work carried on by junior and senior high school girls under the supervision of Miss Florence Grimm. These will include displays of sewing, furniture refinishing and leather work.

The principal also announced that school would be dismissed at 2:15 p.m. Friday to allow for final preparations for the program.

Library Conducts Contest To Determine What Books County Children Prefer

A contest to determine what books children like to read currently is being conducted by the children's division of Monroe County Public Library, Stroudsburg.

The contest is being held in conjunction with this week's observance of National Book Week. Opening Monday, with 29 entries submitted by children who visited the library, no prizes are listed as awards but the contest is expected to disclose what type books, the authors and particular titles children prefer to read.

Mrs. Arthur Ifft, head of the children's section, said yesterday the results will help in the purchase of new books, since the children's preference will be given priority.

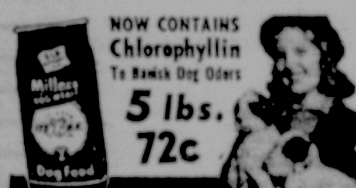

The slips being marked by students contain their school grade, but no individual names. Librarians also expect to find the reading level in this manner, and will be better able to concentrate their future purchases on this basis.

Various classifications comprise the approximately 5,000 books stocked by the children's division. They cover science, fiction, and non-fiction alike, to the picture books for pre-school children. Mrs. Ifft said vocational, mystery and biography books appear to be most popular at present.

Recently 400 books were added to the shelves for children's reading, two of them Christmas specials: "Birthday of Little Jesus," by North and "Amahl and the Night Visitor," by Menotti. Both stories are expected to be televised before the Yule season, it was learned.

The children's division was opened in 1943 and has proved a successful source to area youngsters.

Tonight open house will be held during the regular hours, 7 to 9, and the parents are especially urged to visit the section, Mrs. Ifft said.

County School Directors To Meet Tonight

Monroe County School directors will hold their 48th annual convention tonight at the Court House in Stroudsburg.

At the meeting, which is scheduled to convene at 8:15 p.m., school directors will nominate and elect five officials for the coming year.

T. B. Courtright, president of the Monroe County board, will preside at the meeting with Rev. E. T. Horn, pastor of Tannersville Lutheran Church opening the meeting with Scripture reading and a prayer.

Following this invocation, John C. Litts, superintendent of schools for Monroe County, will deliver a welcoming address to the school directors.

Mr. Litts' speech will be followed by the reading of the minutes by Harry J. Drennan, secretary of the association and the introduction of principal speakers by Walter H. Sebring, assistant county superintendent.

The first of these speakers will be Norman K. Seiple, member of the Delaware County School Board, who will speak on "Duties and Responsibility of a School Director".

A second major address on "Looking Ahead to the 1953 Legislative Session" and dealing with possible enactment of laws affecting the school system, will be given by P. O. Van Ness, executive secretary of the Pennsylvania State School Directors Association.

The Nominating Committee will then report on its selection of candidates for the five offices—an auditor, two delegates and two alternate delegates to the State School Directors convention.

Members of the Nominating Committee are Mrs. Verna Kohn of Mount Pocono, Arlington Smith of Eldred, G. Willard Stettler of Smithfield, John Schimmel of Stroud and Mrs. Selma Greenmoyer of Ross.

Convention Opens Today

Biloxi, Miss. (AP)—Lloyd Oliver of Greeley, Colo., president of the National Water Well Association, said yesterday that an estimated 30 billion gallons of water are consumed in the United States daily.

Oliver, in Biloxi for the association's convention today through Saturday, said that in supplying water to consumers in this country, contractors spend approximately $224,650,000 annually for water well equipment.

He added that since World War II there has been a progressive increase in the amount of pump irrigation, particularly in the western and southern states, and as a result, western states are producing progressively greater percentages of the cotton crop each year.

Henry K. Troeller, of Effort, Pa., is slated to be elected president of the association late this week.

20 Polio Cases, Old And New, Come To Attention Of County Chapter During Present Year

It was a shocking year for polio in Monroe County, Miss Helen Kulp, president of the local polio chapter, reported last night.

There were a total of 20 cases, old and new, with still another now under investigation, she said.

Of these, 11 cases were new ones. Nine are cases from earlier years but for which treatment is still required.

The grimest figure was "four . . ." the number of new cases in which the victims died.

Miss Kulp made her report to some 24 members of the local chapter, volunteer workers, and committee chairmen for the coming polio campaign drive. The session was held at the YMCA, Stroudsburg.

Campaign Chairman Joe Small called for suggestions from each committee head, got plenty. The suggestions dealt mostly with techniques for putting on different phases of the fund campaign, which starts Jan. 2.

Small pointed out that Monroe has a hard record to beat—its own. Last year, he reminded the workers, Monroe ranked fourth highest in the entire State in terms of per capita contributions to the polio campaign.

The group was shown a film on the National Polio Foundation's "Mothers March on Polio". The film is available for any groups which would like to use it to spark interest in the local Mothers' March in January, Small said. He urged such organizations as women's civic clubs, PTAs, and even social women's clubs to contact Miss Kulp at the chapter headquarters in Stroudsburg (tel. Stroudsburg 3900) to arrange for a showing of the film.

It describes means of putting on a Mothers' March at the local level, and describes some of the remarkable results which have been achieved by Mothers' Marches of the past.

The Mothers' March this year will be headed by Miss Marie Brown.

"I've been amazed at the number of people who've volunteered to help," Small said. "I thought it would be a little difficult to persuade people to take jobs in the polio campaign, but everyone has been eager to get in and help, to do anything he can."

There's still a need for more volunteers, however, Small said. Individuals or groups who'd like to help were instructed to contact Miss Kulp at chapter headquarters, and offer their names.

Some of the "help" already has been given. Some 12,000 envelopes have been addressed by the West End Progressive Women's Club, the Junior Women's Club, and the Business and Professional Women's Club. BPW and Junior Women simply took the Bell Telephone directory and addressed envelopes to everyone listed. West End women did the same with the Blue Mountain Telephone book.

More helping will be done at 7 p. m. Monday at East Stroudsburg Methodist Church when Girl Scout Troop No. 9 will stuff the envelopes with the letters and inserts, seal them and stamp them for mailing.

About 20 girls are expected to do the job, although other groups will also do some stuffing and sealing. The scouts will be under direction

500-Pound Bear Killed At Long Pond

Bear season brought reports of two "kills" yesterday from sportsmen in the area.

William Morelock, Bethlehem hunter, shot a 500-pounder at Long Pond at 9:30 a. m. Monday from a distance of 30 feet. That's the biggest one reported so far this year. Another Monday kill was made by Robert Gilbert, Allentown, who shot his first bear after 30 years of hunting near Effort about 11 a. m. that day.

Public Health Nursing Group Plans Election

Planning for their annual meeting to be held December 9 at the YMCA, the Monroe County Organization, Public Health Nursing board met last night at the hospital.

Newly-elected Secretary E. D. Jacobs assumed the responsibility of preparing a mailing list consisting of more than five thousand names left at the resorts' booth in Water Gap during the past Summer.

Chairmen of the various committees outlined their annual reports for the board including Mrs. Koehler, chairman of the nursing committee; Dr. Charlotte Jordan, chairman of the medical advisory committee; Peter Mender, chairman of public relations; and Mrs. Raymond Michener, chairman of the nominating committee.

Mrs. Virginia DePue, executive secretary, also reviewed her annual report, as well as the report of the past month and plans for future expansion of the nursing service.

Dr. Harold A. Tattersall, Mt. Home, Pa., will be on vacation from Saturday, Nov. 23, returning November 27th.—Adv.

of Mrs. Earl Owens, scout leader and member of BPW.

Contacts with the clubs were with: Mrs. Frances Mikels, welfare chairman of Junior Women; Mrs. Richard Fredenberg, president of Junior Women; Mrs. Harry Weiss, vice-chairman of the county chapter and member of the Progressive Women; Mrs. Marvin Krome, president of Progressive Women; and Mrs. Owens, with BPW.

Miss Kulp said last night that at least two more groups have offered assistance: Dr. Veva Dean, for the American Association of University Women; and Mrs. John Blair, for the Welcome Wagon group.

Erdman To Pay Fine, Goes Free

Edward Erdman, 31, East Stroudsburg RD3, was released from the county jail yesterday after agreeing to pay a $220 fine in installments.

Erdman was jailed originally when he was unable to pay a $110 fine for possessing parts of deer taken in closed season, and a similar fine for transporting parts of deer in closed season.

The hearing had been before Justice of the Peace Herbert G. Bonser, East Stroudsburg. Erdman was arrested by John Doebeling, game protector.

Yesterday, by agreement of commissioners, under an order prepared by Justice Bonser, Erdman was released from the jail at 12:45 p. m. after signing a judgment note and agreeing to pay off the fine in $5 weekly installments.

Erdman was taken in custody Nov. 10.

Small Game Hunter Meets Up With Big Bear But, Thank Goodness, It Went Tother Way

Yesterday's biggest bear story was about the one that wasn't. Most people come back from "bar hunts" with tall tales about tall bears.

Elwood LeBar, Normal St., East Stroudsburg hunter is one man who didn't get a bear—and he's darned glad of it.

The way Elwood tells it is this:

He was hunting yesterday "around noon" along Tannersville Heights on Route 611. Elwood was accompanied by his female beagle hunting dog "Daisy," which measures a scant 14 inches and carried a .410 shotgun.

Elwood was strictly after small game. He was one of hundreds of men who were taking advantage of the long-delayed small game season.

When he came out of the woods and into an adjoining field, Elwood was content to mind his own business. It hadn't been what you might call an excellent day for small game—wet and soggy underfoot and the visibility was a little low.

Walking along in the field, however, Mr. LeBar glanced up just in time to sight a big black bear. The bear was barely 50 feet away and bearing down rapidly on LeBar and the beagle. "Daisy"—who had apparently adjusted herself more to the possum, raccoon and pheasant season—had not yet caught scent of the bear.

When she did see the bear, "Daisy" barreled back to her master faster than a blaze out of the blue. LeBar, meanwhile, had "stopped dead" in his tracks. Fortunately, "Daisy" didn't make too much noise on the way.

So the beagle and the man decided to take a chance on staying right where they were. LeBar figured, with lightning calculation that if he moved he might incite the bear to riot. The next step after that might be disastrous.

As the huge, clumsy animal waddled his way (or her way, as the case might be) toward him, LeBar says: "I don't mind admitting it—I was kinda scared."

Gradually, the bear began "veering off" toward the top of the mountain and, eventually, went out of sight.

As the bear disappeared over the hill, Elwood and "Daisy" made a beeline for the bottom of the opposite side.

When he arrived home, Mr.

LeBar had a fine story to tell his neighbors. He was glad he was there to tell it, first hand.

"Yes ma'am, I'll be right over"

More and more we rely upon others for the things our parents and grandparents once had to do for themselves . . . and this dependence upon others is said to be the most basic social change of the past half-century.

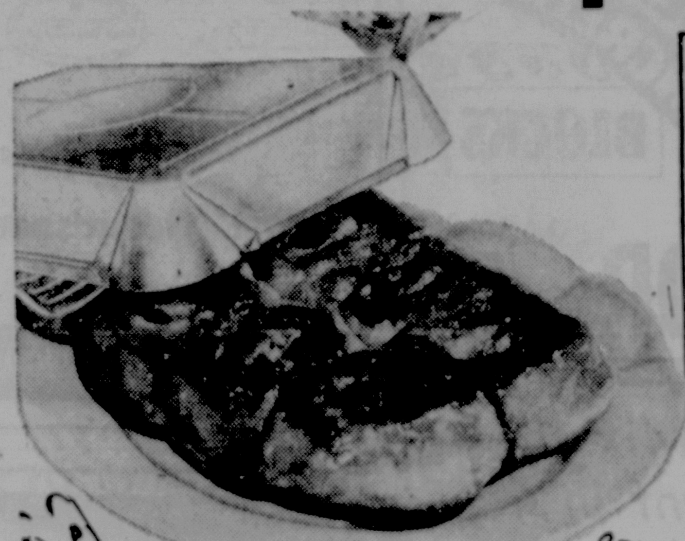

Such things as automobiles, deep-freezers, trucks, airplanes, radio and television have brought this about . . . and the telephone has made it practical.

But we would not depend upon others if we could not reach them surely and quickly when we need them. The telephone and the men and women upon whom good telephone service depends enable us to do this. The telephone is now so much a part of our daily life and habits that we take it for granted.

Foundation Major Part Of House

The foundation is the most important part of the house. Without a good foundation, the rest of the structure will quickly deteriorate.

If the house has a basement, it should have poured concrete footings for basement walls, and wood or metal forms should be used to hold the concrete while it sets.

Forms Important

Once in a while a contractor, seeking to save on costs will tell the home owner that forms are not necessary because the footing trenches have been dug straight and level. However, without forms there is nothing to prevent earth from falling into the trenches while footings are being laid or poured.

Footings must rest firmly on virgin soil for safe support. If they are crooked, the foundation wall will not carry an equal load throughout its length.

Basements are worthless if they are wet. To guard against dampness, a tile drain should be laid around the entire house at the same level as the bottom of the footing, with an inch of space separating each length of tile to permit water to seep into the drain. These spaces should be covered with building paper to prevent dirt from working into the pipe. Then the tile should be covered with a foot of coarse gravel before filling the trench with soil.

Good Footings Required

The new trend toward the basement home, in which case the foundation is usually a single concrete slab, makes proper installation of footings imperative. To prevent frost damage through heaving, and consequent misalignment, all footings should be set 3 1/2 feet below the finished grade.

Brick foundation walls are satisfactory, but the brick should be hard; not soft and easily scratched. When concrete or cinder block are used, they should be adequately supported by proper footings to prevent their settling. Poured concrete is generally considered the best foundation wall and footing material.

Care Can Save Garden Hose

To keep that garden hose going all summer a few simple precautions are all that you need.

First, when the hose gets dirty clean it with plain water. Don't use soap or detergents. Never try to renew its pristine shine with polishing wax.

After using always drain the hose and wipe it clean before reeling it or hanging it. Never hang a hose on nails. Use wooden racks or a reel. Never kink it or shut off the water and don't leave it shut off from the hose nozzle for long periods.

If you are using the hose for long periods of watering and it crosses a drive or walk, protect it with a simple wooden bridge so that a wheelbarrow or car wheels won't pass over the hose.

The most critical part of the hose is the faucet connection end. This may be best protected with the new swivel goose-neck connectors or snap-on couplings.

Space Important When Building

Ample space should be available on all sides of a house in which required windows are located. For detached dwellings, lots 40 feet wide or wider are recommended.

In addition, the house should be placed on the lot so that advantage is taken of the best natural features: Views, slopes of the land, sunlight, prevailing winds and shade trees.

Planting, also should be designed to furnish an attractive setting for the house. Other important considerations in planning the plot of a house should be privacy, and freedom from noise, as well as ample light and air.

Factory-Made Logs Available

Log cabin fans can now get factory-made logs from Canada. They come in uniform sizes with tongue and grooves so they'll lock together. This makes for speedy construction without skilled labor.

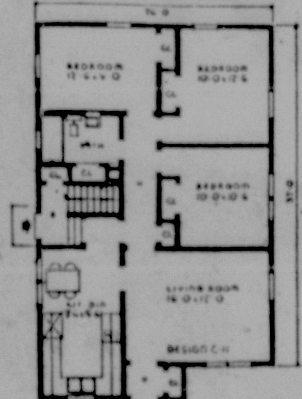

The hearts of the logs have been bored out to aid seasoning and retard rot. This hollow feature serves as an insulating factor and also can be used for electric conduits.

Some Picture Windows May Be Faulty

The popularity of large glass areas in new houses is being jeopardized by builders who are guilty of improper design and low-grade specifications, according to W. Arthur Lee, editor of the "Glass Digest," a trade publication of the flat-glass and allied industries.

Five errors cited by Mr. Lee in his lead article in the current issue of the magazine are faulty window orientation; too thin glass; picture windows with nothing to look at; insufficient provision for ventilation; and the use of single glazing where double glazing is necessary.

Purchasers of houses with these faults may find themselves paying high fuel bills, or living in show-case houses which lack privacy. Their windows may fog up, or make glare rooms. People look into their living rooms from the street or they look out at the neighbor's garage.

Consumer education is needed to support a high standard of builders' practice in this field, Mr. Lee writes. He calls upon glass dealers and manufacturers to join with good builders in a campaign to give the public the facts about glass and to strengthen building codes where necessary.

Asphalt Floor Good In Kitchen

One of the most serviceable and colorful floor coverings for kitchens is asphalt tile, since it is a greaseproof material.

It can be used in virtually any design such as contrasting stripes, squares or rectangles, in grays, tans, greens or mahogany marbled tiles with a cream strip border contrasting with bright walls.

It is a long-wearing material since the colors extend all the way through.

Color Combination

Black and white is one of the newest color combinations for interior decoration.

One of the important reasons for England's setting up of colonies in Virginia was the hope of getting timber and other materials used for building ships.

Paint Cost Small Part Of Total Job

The labor cost of painting usually is two or three times the cost of the paint itself, says American Builder magazine of the building industry. Because of this, a large variation in the price of materials changes the total cost of a painting job by only a relatively small percentage.

Durability, appearance, cost of repainting and similar factors often are much more important than initial cost alone, the magazine says. All of these qualities should be considered in paint selection.

Durable Priming Coat Essential
For use in homes, low-cost paint is considered suitable only if frequent redecoration is desired. However, a durable paint should be used as a priming coat to minimize the expense of surface preparation for repainting, American Builder explains.

If a paint cracks, scales or peels, it must be scraped or burned off before the surface can be repainted satisfactorily. A paint of this kind is excessively expensive no matter how little it costs at first.

American Builder lists numerous specialized paints which are available for specific uses. Included are fume-resistant paints for use where sulphurous gases are present, fungicide paints to resist mildew, and DDT paints as protection against insects.

Rubber Paint For Masonry
A special rubber paint has been developed for use on masonry, concrete and metal. An all-purpose varnish for both exteriors and interiors is virtually immune to ammonia, soap, mild alkali, ink, iodine and fruit stains.

A one-coat paint for exteriors has been put on the market. American Builder says this paint is intended primarily for repainting and is not recommended for application to new wood.

Warning Signal Useful In Home

Bright red paint can be put to many useful purposes around the house, specialists of the United States Department of Agriculture suggest. Because red is one of the most eye-catching colors, it is useful as a warning.

For example, that high shelf in the bathroom cabinet, where medicines are kept out of reach, may be painted red as a flag to members of the family. Similarly, the containers of poisonous materials may well have a coat of red as a distinguishing mark.

Making Roof Tight

Small holes in a shingle roof can be filled with a roofing compound applied either with a brush or with a putty knife.

Plaster Cracks Not Always True Indication That House Is Poorly Built; Reasons Given

Plaster cracks usually are the first things most people look for when trying to judge the condition of a house that is not brand new. This can be both wise and foolish. Some plaster cracks can mean something. Others can mean very little.

An astute appraiser once observed that plaster cracks could be detected even in newly papered rooms by running your fingertips over the wallpaper. If that expert passed up a house on the basis of such an examination he might have missed a good buy.

The major cracks in properly applied plaster are caused by distortions in the framework of a house due to natural shrinkage or settlement of the woodwork. When such movement has stopped, the cracks stop. They can then be repaired with a good chance that they will stay repaired, assuming the house is of just average construction.

Settlement cracks usually appear in corners or run diagonally across a wall. When you consider the characteristics of a house wall, the necessity for it to move in or out according to the weather, to expand with heat and contract with cold, it is no wonder that then and brittle plaster can develop some cracks.

To try to repair settlement cracks as soon as they appear in a comparatively new house can be a waste of time. Nothing is going to stop the settlement of a new house except gravity. Many months of patience are needed and ordinarily a complete heating season.

It's a good idea to put pencil marks on the wall at the tips of such cracks, with new marks added if the cracking goes farther. When no crack goes beyond your last pencil mark, wait about a month and then start patching. In this way you'll probably never have to patch again.

Ceiling cracks, however, can be a different breed. Even if only a bulge appears without cracks, chances are that it will mean looseness. The way to test this is to get up on a stepladder and press the bulge with your hand, or with a broom stick. Movement of the plaster under such pressure is a sign that it has broken away from the lath and a danger signal that it may fall. In such cases the old plaster has to be cut away and new plaster applied with good bonding to the lath.

The main cause of such ceiling failures is moisture. Plaster which has been properly pushed through lath openings, with excess gobs forming anchors, dries to be virtually a reversion to gypsum rock and should last indefinitely. But plaster that is continually dampened will soften and lose its grip.

One thing to remember in applying plaster is that it does not bind to the lath itself or to any other wood. It holds merely because of the spaces or openings in the lathing, through which the plasterer forces the material to form hardened anchors.

Because of this, plaster binds more firmly to metal lath than to wood by virtue of the greater number of openings through which it can ooze when applied. Gypsum lath, plasterboard and insulating board offer bonds not only by the holes in such materials, but also because their open textures allow the plaster to penetrate and harden in the pores.

Metal lath involves more work to install. It provides an excellent base, but usually calls for three-quarters of an inch of plaster.

Capon Clubs Compete In 4-H Contest

Monroe County placed no winners in a keen four-county competition among 4-H Club capon raisers yesterday at Butztown.

The counties, Monroe, Carbon, Lehigh and Northampton, were represented by 53 youngsters who showed individual birds and pens of five which were judged much better birds than those exhibited in the first such contest, held last year.

Each county was judged separately at first; then the first and second prize winners competed against each other for selection of grand and reserve championships.

Northampton won grand championships in both individual bird and pen-of-five-birds contests. Reserve championships went to Northampton for pen of five birds, and to Lehigh for individual bird.

The winners in the Monroe County contest with eight entries were: Individual bird: Gene Kuehner, Kunkletown, 1st; Ray Kleintop, Kunkletown, 2nd; Russell Kresge, Saylorsburg, 3rd.

Pen of five: Alton Kleintop, Kunkletown, 1st; his brother, Ray Kleintop, 2nd; and Zandy Wicks, East Stroudsburg RD, 3rd.

All of the birds exhibited will be auctioned off at a sale at 1 p. m. today at the Lehigh Valley Egg Auction at Butztown, which is located near Bethlehem. The money will go to the owners.

Proper Methods Of Fighting High Voltage Fires Shown

Mount Pocono—Water was played over a 12,000-volt line and oil switch from a fire hose here yesterday. No one was electrocuted.

The reason: a special fog nozzle broke up the stream into tiny separate drops, providing no direct conductor for the high-voltage current.

It was all part of the educational demonstration staged by the Pennsylvania Power and Light Co. team of five men, directed by Marvin Gary, assistant superintendent of operations, Lehigh division, PP&L.

They were showing spectators on the PP&L grounds here—including representatives from fire companies and hotels—what sort of fire extinguishing equipment can be safely used on high voltage equipment.

Some of the extinguishers used involved carbon tetrachloride, carbon dioxide, dry ansul powder, and plain water (from fog nozzles).

Spectators—members of the public and PP&L local employees—all were invited to handle and use the fire extinguishing equipment. They did.

The PP&L stages such a demonstration usually once a year.

AAUW Book Fair To Feature Many Volumes This Weekend

The annual Book Fair, sponsored by the American Association of University Women, will open on Thursday in the basement of Wyckoff Sears, and during the past few weeks the committee of which Miss Helen Brown is chairman, have been collecting from members and friends a wide assortment of books, old and new, for the sale.

Sponsored by Miss Brown's fellowship committee, proceeds from the fair will be used for the AAUW Fellowship Fund, which provides international study grants and national and international fellowship to outstanding women scholars.

This year 48 students from 20 countries used the AAUW International Grants. Women from the following countries are studying in the United States in their specialized field: Austria, Belgium, Denmark, Egypt, England, Finland, France, Germany, Holland, Greece, India, Italy, Israel, Japan, Luxembourg, Norway, the Philippines, Sweden, Switzerland, and Thailand.

Many national and international fellowships averaging $1,500 each are available to American women for graduate study and research.

Miss Brown has been assisted on her committee by Miss Charlotte Ayers, Mrs. Colonius, Miss Katherine Griffith, Mrs. J. Charles Smith, Mrs. Murrell Kiefer, Mrs. Henry Slaboski, Mrs. Harold Edwards, Mrs. J. L. Cohen, Miss Winona Carey, Mrs. J. F. Grimm, Mrs. Sumner Bossler in charge of solicitations, Mrs. William Wyckoff, Mrs. Robert Haigh, publicity, and Dr. Veva Dean, president of the local branch of AAUW.

Books will still be accepted and the committee Mrs. Henry Slaboski, Mrs. Charles Smith and Mrs. Robert Haigh will arrange to call for contributions.

The Book Fair will be open for sales during store hours on Thursday, Friday and Saturday.

Just Between Us

—By Bobby Westbrook

So much happened yesterday, that from the time I wrote the notice of the Business and Professional Women's Club meeting at 1 o'clock until Joyce Rutt walked in the office about 10 p.m., the hours seemed to have stretched into days.

At first sight, I thought Joyce had come to report next Thursday's BPW meeting, and wondered, for a few wild seconds, what ever had happened to Wednesday in the mad scramble.

The fact that her business was polo funds not Beeps, sort of relieved the tension but, really, time flies at such a rate that I wouldn't be surprised to stop typing some night and find it was next year.

However, Wednesday is here, and with its full complement of meetings. What would happen, do you suppose, if there came a day when the calendar was absolutely bare? Do you suppose we'd stay home and catch up on the ironing, or our sleep, or our reading?

Or would we say "Goodie, goodie, no meetings today. Come on over and play some bridge?"

There really is a danger, I think, that we'll get so used to the motion of a merry-go-round, that when it stops we'll keep right on whirling around on our own axis.

—Listen To Bobby Westbrook daily, Monday through Friday, on "The Party Line" WYPO, 10:15 a.m.

Anna Logan Society Sells Half A Ton Of Fruitcake

The Anna Logan Society's fruit cakes are sold—all 1,080 pounds of them, and the members of the society are finding a little free time for their own baking. The cakes were sold for the benefit of the General Hospital.

All last week, beginning with Monday night when the whole membership met to cut up ingredients for the cakes, committees have been working in shifts with the chairman, Mrs. Louis Mansbach, to complete their record quota.

The basement of the Stroudsburg Methodist Church has been fragrant with the smell of baking during the whole week, and the committee in charge last night voiced their deep appreciation to the church, to the workers, and to the public which yesterday afternoon bought the last of the 1,080 pounds.

Society Of 28th, Auxiliary Plans For Christmas

The Society of the 28th Division, Post 56, and its auxiliary met on Sunday at the home of Mrs. Christine Haas, Mrs. Haas, president, presided at the auxiliary meeting.

Artist With Wings Joins CAP Flight

Bushkill—An Arizona artist who helps run a summer art school here will fly her plane to Northern Arizona in the largest Civil Air Patrol demonstration flight in history this month.

She is Mrs. Beatrice Edgerly MacPherson, of Tucson and Bushkill, who was not content with being a writer, painter and illustrator—so won her pilot's license a few years ago.

She has since added for than 100 solo hours, mostly over the mountains of Arizona and California. Once she flew a group of paintings from her Tucson Studio, 400 miles to New Mexico for an exhibition, and returned the same day.

Mrs. MacPherson is chairman of Tucson's chapter of the "Ninety-Nines," an international organization of women pilots, and is a member of the CAP's Arizona wing.

The demonstration flight in which she will take part has been designated "Operation Navajo." The State's CAP planes will converge on the 25,000-square-mile Navajo reservation to display the patrol's ability to muster a maximum number of light planes in an emergency.

At the same time gifts will be given to the Indians on the reservation in a demonstration of goodwill and friendship. The affair will be a two-day operational flight out of Winslow, Ariz.

Those present will include Maj. Lucas V. Beau, CAP commander and Arizona's Gov. Pyle.

Gap PTA Joins County, State Council

Delaware Water Gap — The Water Gap PTA at the November meeting held Monday night had as guest speaker Mrs. Wendy Mazer, president of the County Council of Parents and Teachers. She spoke on the objects of any PTA group and divided the listeners into three groups to hold a "buzz-session" to decide "what our own PTA can do to help here at home."

The secretaries of the groups, Mrs. Francis Drake, Mrs. Henry Kulp and Mrs. Fred Shoemaker, reported group findings with both definite and vague suggestions. Mrs. Mazer gave a summing up to the question and some concrete ideas how to get membership cooperation in a meeting.

She urged the group to affiliate with the State and National PTA and with the County Council.

Mrs. Fred Shoemaker, president, who had introduced the speaker, then took up the business session. After Mrs. Ella Lightner read the minutes and Mrs. Delbert Davis gave the treasurer's report, Mrs. Richard Carlton reported the success of the bake-sale held at Cleveland's in East Stroudsburg. It was voted to turn the money over to the teachers for them to purchase library books or magazine subscriptions for the children.

No definite date for the first movie was selected. Mrs. Francis Drake, who has charge of that project, was given as a committee: Mrs. Ella Lightner, Mrs. Delbert Davis and Mrs. Fred Shoemaker.

Mrs. Shoemaker reported that Mrs. Elizabeth Kane, County Librarian, had visited the school last week with books for the children to read. Mrs. L. Marshall and Mrs. P. W. Morton stated that very few parents had indicated a desire to have the milk project carried out in the school, so it was decided to drop it.

The PTA decided to pay all postage on educational movies shown in the school.

Twenty-one members were reported on the roll; and it was voted to affiliate with the County Council and the State and National organization. At the December meeting, to be held December 15 Mrs. Marshall and Mrs. Morton will be the speakers and will explain the Unit System of teaching. Mrs. D. Davis and Mrs. Lightner will be hostesses. After the business session, Mrs. Richard Carlton and Mrs. Earl Carlton served homemade pumpkin pie and coffee.

*Now the car of the year
— the deal of the year!*

And we're ready to back up that headline with appetizing facts and generous figures. For example, "the car of the year" is more than a glib phrase, it's a title that Mercury has earned by doing — by making news.

Mercury is the one car in its class that came up with something really new for 1952 — styling so new it left other cars far behind. And, if that weren't enough, Mercury (with optional overdrive) again proved that pound for pound it could beat all comers for economy in the Mobilgas Economy Run.

But, we know, you're equally interested in "how much" for your present car. We can give you some idea if you just pick up the phone and call us. But we can do even better if you give us a chance to appraise it firsthand — so we can allow for extras and care you've given it.

So drop around. Our deals are now the best of the year. That means tops in town.

Standard equipment, accessories, and trim illustrated are subject to change without notice. While side-wall tires and full-disc wheels are extra cost.

Life of Riley

By JIM RILEY
Sports Editor

Both Stroudsburg and East Stroudsburg High schools opened preparation for their Thanksgiving Day grid struggle yesterday, but before we settle down to a steady diet of Thanksgiving football, I think it might be a good idea to tie up a host of loose ends that have accumulated in the past few days, a couple which indirectly pertain to the long awaited football battle between the Mountaineers and Cavaliers. The contest is scheduled to get underway at 10 a. m.

The sale of reserved seat tickets, something like 500 in number, weren't nearly enough to satisfy all those who wanted seats saved for the "Battle of the Boroughs." So, in future Thanksgiving Day classics at Memorial Stadium, it is safe to assume that all seats, both students and adults, will be reserved in the main grandstand. Regardless of seating arrangements made for the big game, there will be a host of fans standing on all sides of the field, as the largest crowd to ever watch the two schools in action will be on hand this year.

Charley Elson has been approved for basketball at Stroudsburg High by the Pennsylvania Intercollegiate Athletic Association. The W. Main St. school asked for the approval to make certain that the big cage was eligible after transferring from Allentown, N. J. Charles Mitchell, athletic director at Red Lion High school, was honored with a special article in the latest of The Pa'chote, the PIAA publication. Mitchell is a graduate of East Stroudsburg State Teachers College, in the class of 1925. Wilson Borough, after dropping its opening game of the season to Easton, will take a winning streak of seven straight games into the Thanksgiving Day struggle with Nazareth.

Ray Steele, former baseball and basketball star at East Stroudsburg High school, is still a member of the ESSTC cage squad and appears destined to make the grade in his freshman year at the Nazareth Hill school. It is quite possible that Ray may finish his entire freshman year before reporting to Ottawa, of the International League. Original plans called for Ray to join the Ottawa club in spring training. Steele has been a loyal follower of the East Stroudsburg High grid machine all season, as has Dick Anderson, both graduates last year.

Fred "Benny" Leonard, former Pen Argyl football and basketball mentor, will return to East Stroudsburg, Stroudsburg and Bangor, three of his old haunts, as basketball coach at Phillipsburg High this winter. Leonard resigned from Pen Argyl last spring to take over as assistant football mentor at Phillipsburg and only last week was named coach for the same school, Stroudsburg, East Stroudsburg and Bangor High schools play two games with Phillipsburg this season, on a home-and-home basis.

The reason that Hobart "Hobe" Hutchins missed the final road trip of the ESSTC soccer team is that he was the best man at the wedding of Hubert "Buck" Hutchins, his twin brother. Hubert married the former Joan Chapman, Lake Ariel. Coach Howard De-Nike had known long before the final trip that Hutchins would be unable to make the final game and provisions were successfully made, as the 6-0 victory proves. Both of the Hutchins boys are well known in Wayne County athletics.

Pat and Mike Rubish were in Stroudsburg over the weekend, visiting many friends made during their two years of association with Glen Brook. Mike isn't returning as pro at the local golf club next summer, a fact that will meet with disapproval by virtually every member of the club. Mike hasn't made definite contacts for next season as yet, but is hopeful of continuing as a golf professional. Mike is associated with the University of North Carolina football team and Olympic Reconditioning Co. during the fall and winter months.

Jane Sebring, Nadine Bloss, Doris Bennett, Barbara Kresge and Patricia Metzger are the varsity cheerleaders at Pocono High school this year. The junior varsity cheerleading squad will be composed of Gwyneth Johnson, Beverly Casella, Betty Smith, Diane Strand, Pat Hartman and Mary Learn. Both groups of cheerleaders plan to sport new outfits for the coming basketball campaign. The squads have been hard at work recently drilling for their opening appearance. Arnon Williams, secretary of the Blue Mountain League, will serve as junior varsity basketball coach at Bangor High this winter. John Heard is the varsity cage mentor at Bangor.

Although Bill Metzger, Stroudsburg High back, and Paul "Candy" Miller, a back from East Stroudsburg High, are finished with football for the present campaign, because of injuries, both regularly attend the practice sessions of their respective squads, as interested spectators.

Mountaineers Meet Slaters In First Tilt

Stroudsburg High School will play a total of 21 basketball games during the coming campaign, it was announced last night by Mahlon Serfass, faculty athletic manager at the W. Main St. school. The season opens with Bangor, supplying the opposition on the Stroudsburg court on Tuesday, December 2.

The final encounter of the season is against East Stroudsburg, also on the W. Main St. boards, on Tuesday, March 3. The first meeting with East Stroudsburg is scheduled to take place on Wednesday, January 28.

A total of six non-league school contests are listed for the Mountaineers this year, with East Stroudsburg, Phillipsburg, Bangor and Scranton Central supplying the opposition. The remainder of the games will be played against Lehigh Valley League foes.

Members

Members of the Lehigh Valley League, in addition to the Mountaineers, are Palmyerton, Catasauqua, Emmaus, Lehigh, Whitehall, Slatington and Northampton. Stroudsburg will also take part in the Lehigh Valley League Invitation tournament at Slatington's Smith Hall during the Christmas holidays.

Present plans also call for an December 16.

Tatum Shares Blame For Loss

College Park, Md. (AP) — Coach Jim Tatum of Maryland held a wake yesterday over the myth of Maryland's football invincibility and confessed he was more guilty than anyone else for its death. But while taking the main blame for "not being able to cope with the situation" last Saturday at Mississippi was the umpire, Coach Tatum claimed yesterday.

"Let me say first of all that we would have been the luckiest team ever to have won, but you need some luck to keep winning," he said. "Still, it's not up to the officials to say who deserves to win."

Dispute

Tatum's dispute with the officiating concerned a 61-yard touchdown pass from quarterback Jack Scarbath to end Lou Weidensaul which was nullified. The touchdown would have given Maryland a 21-14 lead and Coach Tatum vowed the "best Mississippi could have gotten after that would have been a tie."

The officials called back the touchdown by ruling a Maryland lineman was illegally downfield on the pass play.

Carpenter Denies Help To Hazleton

Wilmington, Del. (AP) — Bob Carpenter, president of the Philadelphia Phillies, emphatically denied last night that the Phillies have agreed to work with the new Hazleton, Pa., entry in the Interstate League.

Word

After the town was officially accepted into the circuit at a meeting of the league at York, Pa., league president Gerald P. Nugent stated that the Phillies will furnish him with players and a manager in a full working agreement.

"There is absolutely no basis for that report," Carpenter insisted.

MacPhail Promises Track Fans

Bowie, Md. (AP) — Larry S. MacPhail promised Maryland fans late yesterday that horse racing will be resumed Friday "either here at Bowie or elsewhere."

Up until that time, MacPhail had been stubbornly determined to re-open Bowie no matter how long it might take. Early yesterday afternoon he declined even to guess before today when the track might be in condition.

MacPhail didn't specify the "elsewhere" in his statement, but it has to be Pimlico. There are only two other mile tracks in Maryland and the other, Laurel, already has been the scene of the yearly quota at Laurel in the spring.

Philadelphia, (AP) — Bert Bell, commissioner of the National Football League, likes to be ready for any emergency. He thinks there is a good chance that, when the current NFL season ends December 14, there will be a tie in both the American and National Conferences.

Not only a two-way tie, but maybe a three-way or even a four-way tie.

Here's the order of business in case of a triple tie in the American Conference involving the Cleveland Browns, New York Giants and the Philadelphia Eagles.

The Browns draw a bye while the Eagles battle the Giants December 21 in the New York Polo Grounds.

The winner tangles with the Browns in Cleveland on December 28.

Should the American Conference end in a two-way tie between:

The Giants and the Browns, the game to decide the champ would be played in Cleveland December 21.

The Eagles and Browns, the game would be in Philadelphia December 21.

Philadelphia

The Giants and Eagles, the game would be in Philadelphia December 21.

There's a good chance the National Conference will be even tighter. If the Detroit Lions, Green Bay Packers, Los Angeles Rams and San Francisco 49ers finish the season with identical records, here's the playoff schedule:

Detroit will play Green Bay in the Lions' lair on December 21 while on the same date, in Los Angeles, the Rams fight it out with the 49ers.

Now come more ifs:

If San Francisco and Detroit win they clash for title December 28 in Frisco.

If Los Angeles and Detroit win they play off in Detroit.

If the 49ers and Green Bay win the game will be played in San Francisco.

Large Crowd At Diamond Trophy Affair

Bartonville — Approximately 150 people attended the Pocono Mountains Baseball League Trophy banquet here at the Bartonville Hotel last night, at which time various trophies were awarded to team and individual winners for the 1952 campaign only recently completed.

Walter Stem, umpire-in-chief of the league, introduced the various trophy donors, who in turn presented the trophies to the various winners.

The Daily Record trophy was presented by Jim Riley, sports editor, to Clarence Smith, manager of the Kunkletown club, the team that won its second straight pennant. Smith also received a trophy from the Indian Mountain Golf Club, presented by John Wernett, in the absence of Frank Weiss, as the most popular manager. Members of the Kunkletown club also gave Smith a trophy as a token of thanks for the fine job he has turned in during the past two seasons. This trophy was presented by Rudy Mueller, team shortstop.

President Honored

Clinton Getz, president of the league, was honored with a trophy donated by the Monroe County Republican Club as the circuit's most worthy official. Harold Wiggins made the presentation. Rep. John S. Shotwell presented a trophy to Bushkill for winning the playoff championship and Baums Sporting Goods also donated a trophy to Bushkill, presented by Frank Thornton, for finishing second in the regular season flag race.

Waller Sebring, former commissioner of the league and present assistant county superintendent of schools presented a trophy donated by Jacob Altomese, sheriff, to Russ Harrison, Barrett, for the top batting average. Altomese was unable to attend.

Sebring also spoke briefly on the history of baseball in Monroe County, while Getz thanked everyone who had anything to do with making the banquet a success.

Ronnie Mrozinski, southpaw hurler who once pitched for Cardinale, in the North Atlantic League, and who goes to spring training with the Phillies, was the guest of honor and responded with a few words of thanks.

Curt Simmons, Phillies, and Elmer Valo, A's, were scheduled to be present, but were unable to attend.

Rev. William Wunder, of Grace Lutheran Church, delivered both the invocation and benediction.

Senior YMCA Court League May Feature Eight Entries

A meeting of the Senior YMCA Basketball League at the Monroe County YMCA last night revealed that there is a possibility of an eight team circuit this year, and a six club circuit for certain.

Although only three teams were represented at the meeting, interest was shown by the following clubs: Tucker's Chevrolet, Bigg's Restaurant, Auer's Paint Store, Sherman Theater, Pocono Jets and a team from East Stroudsburg State Teachers College.

Industrial

George Metropoulos, athletic director at the YMCA, announced that there will be a meeting of the Industrial League today, at 7:15 p. m.

Five teams have already demonstrated a desire to play in this league this season. The clubs interested are: Worthington Mower, Bescher's Diner, DeVivo's Shoe Repair, another ESSTC team, and Frank's Barber Shop.

However, plans thus far are only tentative and anyone interested in joining the circuit is urged to attend tonight's meeting.

Topic

Rev. William Wunder, pastor of Grace Lutheran Church, will give the sermon entitled "The Miracle of Thanksgiving."

Services are open to the public and a capacity audience is expected for the services.

Oklahoma Head To Back Team

Norman, Okla. (AP) — University of Oklahoma President George L. Cross responded to a student demonstration last night that he would sanction a football bowl trip for the Sooners in defiance of a Big Seven ban if the team wants to go.

Feelers

He disclosed the school has received several feelers from the Orange Bowl at Miami, Fla.

"The only honorable course would be to withdraw from the conference," Cross told the 200 demonstrators on his lawn.

He said he would confer with head coach "Bud" Wilkinson today on a possible decision.

Pitt In Drill Session For State

Pittsburgh (AP)—Coach Red Dawson, fighting off a bad cold, sent his Pitt Panthers through a long football drill yesterday. Two injured regulars sat out the session.

Injured
They are end Bill Adams and guard Merle DeLuca, who were hurt in last Saturday's lopsided victory over North Carolina State. Sophomore end Glenn Dillon and junior guard Bill Priatko filled in. Meanwhile, Pitt officials predicted a crowd of about 50,000 for Saturday's season ender against Penn State.

Hazleton Replaces Wilmington Two Deadlock In Inter-State Diamond Loop

York, Pa., (AP)—Hazleton replaced Wilmington, Del., yesterday in the class "B" Inter-State Baseball League but the status of the Harrisburg entry remained unsettled.

"Everything is set for next year except for the Harrisburg matter," President Gerald P. Nugent told a newsman following a six-hour meeting of the league directors.

"We have given the Harrisburg club until November 25 to decide whether it will operate next year."

Deadline
Nugent said if no decision is reached by the deadline "the franchise will revert to the league."

The transfer of the Wilmington franchise to Hazleton followed the dropping of the Delaware club by the parent Philadelphia Phillies.

Edward F. Kirschner, head of the Hazleton group, said he had signed a working agreement with the Phillies, to include a manager and players.

Naming 22 victorious teams in the 26-game list that appeared in The Daily Record football page last week was quite an accomplishment, but two contestants did just that to win the $15 prize money, which they will divide.

Bill Lanterman, 271 Prospect St., East Stroudsburg, and Shirley Frutchey, S. Broad, East Bangor, are the two who saw all but four of their predictions materialize.

Upsets
Mississippi's victory over Maryland and Brown's conquest of Harvard upset both the winning contestants . . . and many others.

Lanterman was also surprised at the victories of Army and Ohio State over Penn and Illinois, respectively.

Miss Frutchey failed to foresee that Iowa would defeat Northwestern and that Princeton would beat Yale.

Rickey Stops Reports
Pittsburgh (AP)—General Manager Branch Rickey of the Pittsburgh Pirates returned from a 10-day western trip yesterday and quickly put a stop to reports he's to name a successor to manager Billy Meyer.

Ex-Governor Moore Dies While Driving

Somerville, N. J. (AP)—A Harry Moore, 73, who rose from a $3-a-week office boy to become New Jersey's only three-time governor, died yesterday of a stroke while driving his automobile near this rural community.

The wife of the former Democratic governor and U. S. senator was at his side as their car swerved to a halt in a ditch after breaking through a guard rail. Mrs. Moore was injured slightly.

Early this year, Moore suffered a fatigue collapse. He was unable to attend the Democratic National Convention in Chicago to which he was elected a delegate-at-large from New Jersey.

Moore served as governor from 1925-28; 1931-34; and 1937-40. State law at the time did not permit successive terms.

He was elected to the U. S. Senate after his second term but quit to run for the governorship again. While a member of the Senate he was the only Democrat to vote against the Social Security Law.

The Lindbergh kidnapping case broke during Moore's second term as governor and he directed much of the police investigation.

Bishop Oxnam Calls Upon Catholic Leaders To State Views On Funds For Schools

Atlantic City, N. J. (AP)—A leading Methodist churchman yesterday challenged Catholic bishops to say whether or not they are trying to get public funds to support Catholic schools.

Methodist Bishop G. Bromley Oxnam of Washington, D. C., issued the challenge, amid a flurry of controversy over a 3,000-word Catholic declaration last week on religion and education.

In it, the Catholic bishops of America said the state "has the duty" of aiding religious training. They termed it "utterly unfair" to deny such services as tax-financed bus transportation to Catholic schools.

Oxnam, secretary of the Methodist Council of Bishops, said Catholic leaders should define in "clear and unmistakable" terms what their objectives are in respect to tax aid to parochial schools.

He said there can be constructive discussion of school lunches, buses and other auxiliary services to Catholic schools only after Catholic leaders state these are not just a first step toward more public support.

Controversy over providing such services to Catholic schools has several times, in recent years, bogged down proposed federal aid to education.

The Supreme Court has held it constitutional to supply tax-financed transportation and textbooks to Catholic school pupils. Some states do this. Others do not.

Oxnam, in his statement issued at the semi-annual meeting here of the bishops' council, said:

"Private and parochial education make their contribution to American life. But they cease to be private if publicly supported."

Here is a pleasant little game that will give you a message every day. It is a numerical puzzle designed to spell out your fortune. Count the letters in your first name. If the number is 6 or more, subtract 4. If the number is less than 6, add 3. The result is your key number. Start at the upper left-hand corner of the rectangle and check every one of your key numbers, left to right. Then read the message the letters under the checked figures give you.

Mickey Rooney Married For Fourth Time

Las Vegas, Nev. (AP)—Mickey Rooney, the perennial juvenile, took his fourth bride yesterday.

She's redheaded, taller than he and practically unknown.

Even her name, Elaine Mahnkens, didn't mean much to Hollywood. A few night clubbers recalled seeing her around with Mickey the last few weeks. She gave her occupation as a model, and said she is 22 and once-divorced.

Mickey's background is better known. The precocious 32-year-old has been married to Ava Gardner, Betty Jane Rase and Martha Vickers, in that order.

"This is it," he said. "I'm really in love."

They eloped here from Hollywood early yesterday and were married at Wee Kirk o' the Heather Chapel. Then they checked into a hotel as Mr. and Mrs. Joseph Yule. That's Mickey's real name.

Despite his experience at saying "I do," Mickey was nervous and fumbled for the ring.

He told reporters he and Elaine met at a Hollywood party two months ago.

Bell Firm Presents Final Arguments On Rate Proposal

Harrisburg, (AP)—The Bell Telephone Company of Pennsylvania yesterday presented final arguments to the Public Utility Commission on a proposal to raise state telephone rates an estimated 32 million dollars annually.

"The company has faced unprecedented demands for telephone service since the end of the war," said Clarence W. Miles, counsel for the company.

The company has thousands of unfilled orders for service. The company must have a rate increase if it is to have sufficient capital to meet new service demands," Miles said.

Maintaining that the company was using a fair means of determining depreciation in its rate proposal, Miles contended five or 10 year depreciation averages have no place in the case.

He compared the depreciation average of $808,000 for the past five years with $859,700 for the past two years.

Anne X. Alpern, Pittsburgh solicitor, attacked the company case on two points, its pension plan and rate return on capital investment.

Miss Alpern said 7 million dollars is too much for a pension program and that Bell has asked for pensions far in excess of what it requires.

Miss Alpern said the company's fair return estimate on its capital investment was "too high."

The company is asking 6.7 per cent return on its capital investment estimated at 633 million dollars.

Due to inflated conditions since the Korean War, taking less than a three-year average for estimating depreciation would be "unfair," Miss Alpern charged.
